The beer is named after local cricketer Martyn Parker, who has played for Overseal Phoenix and Hartshorne. Martyn, who is a great family friend, has floored a few batsman in his time but on one occasion was floored in the middle of bowling a delivery. With all running to his aid, worried about its cause he proceeded to explain that he had been floored by a wasp... sympathy was in abundance. Martyn is also known for his large proboscis, or rather, his nose.

16 - Tommo's Mild - 3.4% Mild £1.40

For Tommo's Mild we have used 3 different types of malt to give this beer depth and richness. Mild is a traditional ale, mainly drunk around the Midlands. This brew was developed in time for 'Mild May' a celebration of all good things about mild bitter, and is a tradition that we need to keep alive. The chocolate malt gives this ale a distinctive velvet texture and taste. The beer is named after Steve Tomlin, who has been one of the instigators behind pushing Hartshorne Cricket Club into the positive and proactive community club it is today. Steve is incredibly tall, hence the size of the stumps in the pump clip.
